DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

The objection to the disclosure is withdrawn in view of applicants' amendments.

The objection to claim 7 is withdrawn in view of applicants' amendment.

Applicants' amendment to claims 1, 2, 7, 19 and 20 is acknowledged. Currently, claims 1-20 are under prosecution.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-11, 14, and 16-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Breznak et al, 5,916,506, for reasons of record.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hull, 3,803,453, for reasons of record.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed January 22, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants argue that the present invention includes the limitation in independent claims 1 and 19 that the energy receptive additive is capable of absorbing electromagnetic energy at a frequency within the range of 0.01 to 300 GHz and melting the fiber in less than one second, wherein Breznak and Hull do not teach such an element.

In response thereto, applicants', in claim 7, have further defined carbon black and titanium dioxide as being suitable energy receptive additives. Breznak clearly teaches that his fibers have carbon black dispersed therein and Hull clearly teaches that his fibers have carbon black dispersed in the core component and titanium dioxide dispersed in the sheath. It is the position of the examiner that the same particles necessarily have the same properties and therefore the limitation that the energy receptive additive is capable of absorbing electromagnetic energy at a frequency within the range of 0.01 to 300 GHz and melting the fiber in less than one second is inherent in the additives of Breznak and Hull, in the absence of clear factual evidence to the contrary. "It is elementary that the mere recitation of a newly discovered function or property, inherently possessed by things in the prior art, does not cause a claim drawn to distinguish over the prior art. Additionally, where the Patent Office has reason to believe that a functional limitation asserted to be critical for establishing novelty in the claimed subject matter may, in fact, be an inherent characteristic of the prior art, it possesses the authority to require the applicant to prove that the subject matter shown to be in the prior art does not possess the characteristic relied on." In re Swinehart, 169 USPQ 226 (CCPA 1971)

No claims are allowed.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
